

K-Love Radio

Please do not allow low power FM stations to bump the inspiring programming the K-Love Radio provides across the nation. This is the only station I am not afraid to leave on with my don in the room. I haven't heard any local stations where they do not have profanity at least several times a day. The ability to travel and tune into K-Love almost anywhere is really helpful. I know ahead of time, where the station is, and I don't have to scan every station on the air to find it.

I live near Corvallis, which is a College Community, This is the only radio station in the area, that I have found, that is a positive influence. With all the peer pressure these kids are faced with, it is a great blessing to have such a refreshing station to tune in to.

With the rapid decline in public television programming, and fewer radio stations that provide this type of programming, this is one of the few places that parents have left to let their children listen to without being paranoid about what is going to be said for their children to hear.

Allowing low power FM stations to have priority over stations such as K-Love, would be a great disservice to every community whose listeners support programming they can trust.

Thank you,
